FUSION
S • MIXED FITNESS

Collectivus has designed a stylish interior for TotalFusion's state-of-the-art fitness studios in Brisbane, Queensland. Inspired by the tranquil and serene ambiance of an Indonesian resort and spa retreat, the sleek space effortlessly echoes the brand's concept of 'mindful movement'.

The studio is both functional and aesthetically engaging, offering a multi-sensory experience and space for fitness and well-being enthusiasts to switch-off, reflect, meditate and focus.

"To create the sub-tropical look, we used warm timbers, crisp whites and lush greenery throughout the space," commented the Collectivus Design Team.

The warm timber look finishes paired with white walls, mirrors and neon light strips on featured edges highlight the clean lines and minimalistic style of the yoga studios, pilates and locker rooms.

This aesthetic is continued through to the reception, retail space and health bar with the lighter timber finishes and neutral oak look flooring adding a sense of coolness and calmness to the front-of-house space.

“We wanted a timber look floor to contribute to the overall feel of the interior and also something that was easy to maintain for high traffic areas. French Grey Oak and Lemon Spotted Gum met both of our requirements for practicality and visual effect.”

In a project like this, moisture from sweat, foot traffic from runners and indentation from heavy equipment were key considerations that needed to be reflected in the choice of materials. Karndean’s commercial slip rating, high abrasion resistance, durability and easy maintenance was the ideal product for the environment.

“We and the client are very happy with the outcome,” added Collectivus.

“The flooring has realistic timber characteristics and is also super easy to maintain. With Karndean LooseLay, we didn’t have to sacrifice form over function as the product served both requirements.”
